

Grant Wilson, Centre Manager from Shropshire Hills Discovery Centre, is doing the 120-mile clockwise run around the Southern Loop on the first weekend In June.

From Grant Wilson

- Why I am doing it- raise money for the Centre; promote the new SW path and guidebook; encourage people to walk the path; demonstrate my commitment to the Centre and GCL
- What the money will be used for- Outstanding Natural project, keeping our meadows and Centre maintained when all other income streams have been cut off
- How people can follow and support me- I will follow up the video with a post containing the JustGiving page and tracker links.

Here is a quote that will be going out on a press release on Monday.

“I am attempting to complete the whole 120 miles of the new Shropshire Way long-distance path non-stop solo in under 40 hours. My aims are to promote the Discovery Centre and meadows and to raise some much-needed funds at a time when our charity has no other income at all. The funds raised will go towards an exciting development plan we have coming up including a replica Iron-Age cookhouse, a wetland nature reserve and a community growing project. I also wanted to raise awareness about the new Shropshire Way- we have a world-class long distance path right on our doorstep which anyone can do in easy sections- why not give it a go during what looks like being a stay home summer? If you would like to follow my progress or come and cheer me on, please download my tracker link. If you would like to support the great work we do at the Centre, please make a donation via my JustGiving page. Your donations will spur me on to complete this mammoth challenge which will involve two consecutive nights without sleep and nearly 5000 metres of climbing!”
